Georgetown, Ontario Union Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Union Presbyterian Church near Georgetown, Ontario was organized in 1833 as a congregation of the United Synod of Upper Canada (which united with the Presbyterian Church of Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland in 1840). In 1846, following the Disruption, Union joined the Presbyterian Church of Canada. From the 1830s the congregation was linked with Norval Presbyterian Church. The two congregations were also linked with Boston Presbyterian Church, Esquesing from 1847 to 1850. The congregation rejected Church Union in 1925.

Gillies Hill Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

The congregation of Gillies Hill Presbyterian Church, Gillies Hill (Bruce County) was organized by the Rev J. Johnston in 1894, having been a preaching station previously. The congregation met in the Town Hall for many years until construction of a church, which was begun in 1909 and completed in 1910. Gillies was linked with Salem and Dobbinton as a three-point charge from its beginning. In 1925 Gillies and Salem were linked with Paisley (presumably Dobbinton joined the United Church). This continued until 1936 when the last service was held in the church by the Rev A. H. Wilson and in the following year the church property was disposed of.

Glammis, Ontario

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church (Glammis, Ont.) was established in 1858 at the same time as the building of the first church. The congregation was originally known as Greenock Presbyterian Church. The first minister, the Rev. Alexander McKay was ordained and inducted in 1860. St. Paul's was at this time united as a two point charge with South Bruce (later Tiverton). St. Paul's was later linked with Chalmers Church in Armow but this connection ended in 1905. During the time of Church Union in 1925, the congregation chose to remain with The Presbyterian Church in Canada. In 1931, the charge was reduced to a mission field. Since 1956, St. Paul's Glammis has been a two point charge with Paisley.

Glencoe, Ontario

Glencoe Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Glencoe Presbyterian Church (Ont.) was formed on January 1, 1885 with the amalgamation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (Glencoe, Ont.), Burns Presbyterian Church (Glencoe, Ont.) and Knox Presbyterian Church (Ekfrid, Ont.). Services were conducted in both the St. Andrew's and Burns buildings until 1886 when the Burns church was destroyed by fire. The first minister was the Rev. John Robbins who was inducted in 1885. At this time, Glencoe was united as a three point charge with Appin and Tait's Corners. This union lasted until 1888. A new building was built on the Burns site and was dedicated on June 1, 1890. The congregation remained with The Presbyterian Church in Canada during the time of Church Union in 1925.

Glenvale, Ontario Glenvale Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Glenvale Presbyterian Church was established as a mission station during the 1870s and was linked with Wilton and Harrowsmith until 1919, when Harrowsmith was dissolved, and with Wilton alone until 1925. In 1925, Glenvale and Wilton were linked with Ernestown and Camden East in a four-point charge. Between 1936 and 1941 there were several re-alignments of congregations in the area. In 1936 Deseronto, Camden East, Wilton, Glenvale, Ernestown and Sunbury were linked as one pastoral charge. In 1937 Deseronto and Sunbury were set up as a two-point charge and the other four were designated mission stations with student supply. In 1938 Deseronto, Camden East and Ernestown were linked as a three-point charge, while Wilton, Glenvale and Sunbury were linked as a three-point charge. In 1940, Sunbury, Glenvale and Wilton were placed as student mission fields under Deseronto and in 1944 Glenvale was dissolved.

Goderich, Ontario

Knox Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Knox Presbyterian Church in Goderich, Ontario was established c.1835. The first settled minister to the congregation was the Rev. Alexander MacKenzie. A church building was erected in 1843, and replaced with a new building in 1861. In 1875, the two Presbyterian churches in Goderich (Knox and St. Andrew's) were amalgamated, continuing as one congregation under the name "Knox Presbyterian Church". St. Andrew's Church, located between Bruce and Nelson streets, was established c.1842. The church building was built between 1844 and 1846. Knox Presbyterian Church voted to remain Presbyterian at the time of Church Union in 1925. The church building was destroyed by fire in 1950, and replaced with a new building, opened in September 1952. On Dec. 31, 1970, Knox Presbyterian Church in Auburn, Ontario was amalgamated with Knox Presbyterian Church, Goderich. The Auburn church was formed in 1925 by those members of the original Knox Presbyterian Church in Auburn (est. 1860) that voted against joining the United Church of Canada. Mr. R.B. Gracie, from the Yonge Street Mission in Toronto, lead worship services until 1927, when the Rev. T.W. Goodwill was inducted. In 1928, the old Methodist church was purchased by the congregation from the United Church, and formally dedicated on November 18.

Gould, Quebec Emanuel Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Emanuel Presbyterian Church in Gould (Township of Lingwick), Quebec was established in 1925. When the majority of members of Chalmers Presbyterian Church in Gould (est. 1845), voted to join the United Church in Canada, some dissident members decided to remain Presbyterian and established Emanuel Presbyterian Church. However, in 1949, the congregation of Emanuel Presbyterian Church amalgamated with Chalmers United Church and joined the United Church of Canada.

Gravel Hill, Ontario

St. James-St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

St. James-St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (Gravel Hill, Ont.) was formed in 1998 when the congregations of St. James', Gravel Hill (est. 1863) and St. Andrew's, Monkland (est. 1906) were amalgamated.

St. James, Gravel Hill began as a Church of Scotland mission in 1862, through the efforts of Rev. Joshua Frazer, then a student. After beginning with worship services in a school and a barn, a frame church was erected on the 4th Concession, Roxborough County in 1863, which was known as Gravel Hill Church or the 4th Concession Church.

In 1880, Glengarry Presbytery linked the two Roxborough County churches, St. James' (as it was known by then) on the 4th Concession and Knox on the 6th Concession, an arrangement which continued until 1885. St. James' Gravel Hill was a single charge from 1885 until in 1887, it was linked to Zion, Apple Hill. The link with Zion, Apple Hill continued until 1904, then St. James' was linked with Avonmore continuing until 1906.

Nearby, the new Village of Monkland was growing with the advent of the Canadian Pacific Railway. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Monkland began in 1906 as members of the nearby Gravel Hill congregation living in Monkland and others, participated in weekly prayer meetings in Truax's or MacGillivray's Hall in Monkland. These services were conducted by the Rev. Hector N. MacLean and from 1907 to 1909, the Rev. James Hastie was minister of Gravel Hill and Monkland. In 1909, a student minister, Mr. Andrew Drysdale assumed pastoral duties from Rev. Hastie. That year a building lot was purchased and a frame church was completed and named St. Andrew's in recognition of the efforts of Mr. Drysdale in raising funds for construction.

St. Andrew's Monkland was linked with St. James' Gravel Hill from 1907 until 1937 and was served by ordained and student ministers.

In 1937 St. James' Gravel Hill and St. Andrew's Monkland were linked with St. Andrew's Avonmore as a three-point charge, an arrangement which continued until St. Andrew's Monkland was closed in 1998 and the congregations of St. James' and St. Andrew's were amalgamated. The amalgamated congregation was then linked with Avonmore until in 1999, a three-point charge of St. James-St. Andrew's Gravel Hill, St. Andrew's Avonmore and St. Luke's-Knox Finch was formed, an arrangement which continues today.

A manse was purchased in Monkland in 1907 and was sold in 1951.

The pews, pulpit and sounding board of St. Andrew's Monkland were donated to the National Presbyterian Museum and are part of the pioneer chapel constructed when the Museum opened in 2001.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Guelph had its roots in the Sabbath School which was established in 1828. The Governor through the Canada Company, granted 200 acres of property in the Woodstock area as a "Glebe" for a Presbyterian church in Guelph. This was exchanged in 1831 for 160 acres to the north (near Speedvale). In 1832 the congregation of St. Andrew's was established under the Church of Scotland within the Presbytery of York. The first (frame) church was built on a site given by the Canada Company where the City Hall now stands. The first minister was the Rev. James Smith who was appointed in 1832 and served until 1844. The construction of the Grand Trunk Railway affected the church property and in 1854, the frame church was taken down and the land was sold. A new stone church building completed in 1858, a gallery was added the following year and an organ installed in 1871. In 1925 St. Andrew's voted to remain within the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Westminster-St. Paul's Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

The "St. Paul's" roots of Westminster-St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Guelph, go back to 1889 when a Sunday School was formed by Knox, Guelph. A building was erected the following year at the corner of Toronto and Short Streets. The congregation which eventually grew from that beginning as a Sunday School, was formally established in 1913 and was known as St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Their first Minister was the Rev. C.F. McIntosh who served until 1917. In the early 1920s the building was extensively remodeled, widened and the roof was raised. In 1925, the congregation voted overwhelmingly (80%) to remain within the Presbyterian Church. In 1936, St. Paul's was linked with Eden Mills and Rockwood, an arrangement which continued until 1954.

In 1956, Knox, Guelph again had a hand in Westminster-St. Paul's history when Knox, as a first step in establishing a Presbyterian Church in the north end of Guelph, opened a Church School. At first, pupils met at John F. Ross Collegiate, then as the school and a new congregation grew, services were moved to Ottawa Crescent School in 1957. A congregation was established in 1958, supported by Knox and St. Andrew's and was known as Westminster Presbyterian Church. That year, Westminster called their first Minister, Rev. J. Douglas Gordon who served until 1961. A manse was purchased on Shirley Avenue in 1958.

In 1959, St. Paul's was amalgamated with the new Westminster congregation to form Westminster-St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. In 1960, a new church building on Victoria Road was completed and the old St. Paul's church building was sold. Additional land adjacent to the church was purchased from the City in 1965.
