

Oakville, Ontario

Knox Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Knox Presbyterian Church (Oakville, ON) was established in 1833. The congregation began to meet in a small wooden building beside the Sixteen Mile Creek. The first minister to conduct a Presbyterian service in the area was the Rev. Edwards Marsh as a part of the American Home Mission group. The influence of the American church faded and was replaced in 1836 by the rise of the Scotch Kirk. The name of the church at that time was The Oakville Presbyterian Church. From 1844 the congregation was a joint session with Knox Sixteen. In 1844 the united congregation joined the Presbyterian Church of Canada (Free Church). The connection between the united charge of Oakville and Knox Sixteen was severed in 1882. A new church building was opened in 1888. It was at this time that the name of the congregation became Knox Presbyterian Church. The congregation voted against Church Union in 1925 and remained with The Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Oil Springs, Ontario St. Paul's Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Oil Springs was established in 1925 when a minority decided to remain with The Presbyterian Church in Canada. The original congregation was established in 1858, linked with the congregation in Petrolia. In the 1880s, Petrolia became a separate charge and Oil Springs became a mission station. The church property was sold back to the continuing Presbyterians for a nominal sum in 1928. In 1926 St. Paul's was linked with Knox Presbyterian Church, Thedford to form a two-point charge and in 1964 the congregation was dissolved.

Erskine Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Erskine Presbyterian Church (Ottawa, Ont.) was established in 1874 following the presentation of a petition to the Presbytery of the Canada Presbyterian Church to organize a mission station in the Rochesterville area. The petition was granted by Presbytery on November 18, 1874 and James Miller was appointed catechist. The first church building was completed in 1877. The Rev. Joseph White was the first inducted minister, beginning his ministry on March 12, 1878. The Sunday School was started in 1876. The congregation outgrew its first building and the cornerstone for a new building was laid on October 5, 1887. This building was destroyed by the Great Fire of 1901 along with many homes and other buildings. The congregation on Bank Street lent their church hall for the use of the Erskine congregation. It was decided that this location would be ideal for a new church building. The congregation bought the hall from Bank St. and the new Church was opened December 14, 1901. This church quickly became too small for the growing congregation and a final church building was completed February 23, 1906. During the time of Church Union in 1925, the majority of the congregation voted to remain with The Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Knox Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

Knox Presbyterian Church (Ottawa, ON) was established in 1844 following the Disruption within the Church of Scotland. The first church building was opened in December of 1845. The first minister to be inducted to the congregation was the Rev. Thomas Wardrope. In 1865 due to a big growth in congregation size, a number of the congregation left to form Bank Street Church (now Dominion-Chalmers United Church). The cornerstone for a new church was laid in 1870 however, the building wasn't completed until early in 1874. A number of the members chose not to move to the new building. They remained at the old location calling themselves St. Paul's Presbyterian Church which became St. Paul's Eastern United following Church Union in 1925. Knox Presbyterian Church rejected Church Union in 1925. The site of the church's home on City Hall Square was expropriated by the city of Ottawa in 1930. A new building was completed in 1933.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (Ottawa, Ont.) was established in 1828 in connection with the Church of Scotland. The first church building was completed in 1828 by the masons who built the Rideau Canal. The first minister to be inducted was the Rev. John Cruikshank who began his ministry in March 1830. The first church was demolished in 1872 and was replaced by a new church designed by W. T. Thomas which was completed in 1874. The majority of St. Andrew's congregation voted to remain a part of The Presbyterian Church in Canada during the time of Church Union in 1925. In 1972, the Sunday School hall was taken down and was replaced with what was called St. Andrew's tower. At this time the sanctuary was refurbished and a new pipe organ was installed. The new building was dedicated in October of 1987.

St. Giles Presbyterian Church

Historical Sketch

St. Giles Presbyterian Church (Ottawa, Ont.) was established in 1925 and was made up of non-concurring Presbyterians from several Ottawa churches. The congregation began by opening a Sunday School on January 18, 1925 with 57 pupils. Shortly after, they began to meet for worship in the Seventh Day Adventist church on Fifth Street. The Rev. Archibald G. Cameron was appointed by the Presbytery to guide the new congregation. On June 30, 1925, St. Giles was granted full congregational status. In February of 1928, the Rev. Archibald Cameron was inducted as the first minister. A new church building was constructed and dedicated May 5, 1929. The congregation built a Christian Education Centre in 1955. Cushman Memorial Presbyterian Church (Hull, Quebec) amalgamated with St. Giles in June of 1995.
